

KANSAS CITY, KANSAS.

ALWAYS TO THE FRONT.

New Addition to the Equipment of

WULF'S LAUNDRY.

The newest thing in laundering devices is a collar turner, the invention of Troy Laundry Machinery Company. The device is so useful and the idea so simple and practicable that the market is not thought to be limited. Heretofore the bugaboo of the turn-down collar has been the treatment. It acts in making the fold—the crinkling of the starched linen and the consequent ransacking of the laundry. We are enabled herewith to present drawings illustrative of this new collar folder. The folder will be in operation in a few days and can be seen at Wulf's Laundry.

If so soon that it is done for.
What on earth was it begun for.

Now comes this new invention of Troy Laundry Machinery Company, which will not only do the job of turn-down collars, so as enjoyed by its rival of the stand-up variety, but with less expenditure for collars and popularize, as it deserves, the turn-down collar, which is honorably conceded to be the most comfortable and attractive article of linen neckwear.

Ings illustrative of this new collar folder. The folder will be in operation in a few days and can be seen at Wulf's Laundry.

WULF'S LAUNDRY,
Fifth and State, Kansas City, Kas.
H. T. WULF, Prop.

Enterprising Business Men Always Advertise.

Keeley Institute JOHN T. SIMS C. CHAPIN, ★
Justice of the Peace,
Portsmouth Bldg.
Remember this no
Keeley Institute in Kansas City, Mo.
Barn of cheap immigrants.

JAMES & MARSH
Flour, Feed, Coal and Mixed Mortar.
Linen, Hair, Sandwich, Sewing and Sewer Tapes...
All kinds House Repairs done promptly.
N. E. Cor. 4th and Minnesota Ave.

A. T. KRIDLER
Pharmacist and Superintendent of Wyandotte Gas Company.

E. S. W. DROUGHT,
Successor to Kansas City Painting Mill.

Sash, Doors, Moldings, Turning and Planing, Roll and Hand Sawing, Star Building, Cabinet Making, Pictures and Hardware Finishing, Materials promptly furnished.

Oakland Ave., Cor. 4th St., Kansas City, Kas.

George M. Hughes,
Justice of the Peace,
Tel. 210.
New number, West 78,
442 Minnesota Ave.
All business promptly attended to.

POETTS INVESTMENT CO.
Tel. West 111.

AUGUST JOHNSON,
Dealer and Manufacturer of MONUMENTS and HEADSTONES
in marble and granite.
All work guaranteed.
337 MINN. AVE.

W. P. WHITE,
Dealer in
Wall Paper, Paints, Oils, Gums and Artistic Supplies.
Established 1888.
Wyandotte Gas Co.,
Busted Bldg.

LOTS IN Belle View!
$125, $150, $200.
$10 cash, balance $5
per month.

S. N. Simpson & Son,
Chamber of Com. Bldg.

CHARLES RAMBO
Arraigned Before Justice
Sims Upon the Charge of Attempting to Kill His Wife.

Charles Rambo was arraigned before Justice Sims yesterday afternoon on a charge of attempting his wife with intent to kill. At the time he and his wife lived in this city, on that day he came near killing his wife, but she escaped. He was then driving over the country. Sunday night he was arrested by Kansas City, Mo., officers in Topeka, and brought to justice. On Monday morning he met him. Rambo refused to come across the state line without a requisition. The necessary documents were issued, and he was sent to Topeka. He was bound over in the sum of $500, and his trial was set for hearing next Tuesday, October 22.

THE JOURNAL OFFICE has been removed from the Chamber of Commerce to the first floor of the Columbia Building at Sixth street and Minnesota avenue.

Republican Ticket Wyandotte County.
DAVID MARTIN—Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.
E. L. ALDEN—Judge of the District Court.
W. G. HOLT—Judge of the Common Pleas Court.
W. L. LARSEN SCHNEIDER—Treasurer.
J. W. LONGFELLOW—Sheriff.
O. W. SHIELDERS—Register of Deeds.
LEONARD DANIELS—County Clerk.
J. W. COVETTE—Clerk of the Common Pleas Court.
WILLIAM BARCLAY—Surveyor.
V. C. FORD—Coroner.
J. W. MOORE—Commissioner of Second District.

TWO BODIES STOLEN.

DOUBLE GRAVE OF JOSEPH FRANKOVICH AND MIKE BUKOWOC ROBBED.

VIGILANCE PROVED UNAVAILING.

THE GHOULS DID THEIR DASTARDLY WORK ON SUNDAY NIGHT.

CONGRESSMAN BRYAN.

Expected to speak in This City on Thursday evening.

Congressman Bryan, of Nebraska, the noted free silver orator, is to speak in Banister's Tabernacle in this city, one evening this week, under the auspices of the Bimonthly Tabernacle. Judge Stevens yesterday telephoned to him, telling him to be here Thursday night. No definite time was given, but he is certain that Mr. Bryan will be here Thursday evening. A response to the message will likely be received to-morrow, when the matter will be definitely settled.

WILL QUIT TO DAY.

P. W. Carey will sever his connection with the Fire Department.

P. W. Carey, who has been assistant chief of the fire department in this city for more than four years, will sever his connection with the department to-day, before noon. The undertakers were notified immediately, and detectives were placed at work on the case. Search warrants were issued in order that the police might enter a local medical college to look for the bodies, but upon search the bodies were not found there. The detectives have been unable to find them.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are very peculiar. Sunday evening the grave was opened by the agent of the cemetery, and the bodies were there. Yesterday morning the bodies were opened again, and the bodies were found missing.

One week ago Frankovich and Mike Bukowoc, the two Polish brothers, who had been members of the Polish Society, and the funeral services were conducted by the Polish Society, a son of Ned Miller, an old negro, says he was aroused from his sleep by fire of gunpowder. The wanted him to tell them where the two bodies were buried. He refused to do so, and threatened to shoot them, if they did not leave the city. The police department, however, did not hear from some source that ghouls had stolen the bodies. He reported the bodies to the coroner's office, and the coroner and the undertakers who buried the bodies, and who had charge of the cemetery.

An article in yesterday's Journal, William Billwell, of the firm of Daniels & Comfort, the undertakers, who buried the bodies, accused the two Polish brothers of robbing St. John's cemetery one week ago Sunday. The graves were reburied last Sunday. The graves were reburied last Sunday.

Great excitement now prevails in Polish circles, and if the robbers are apprehended they will receive speedy justice. The robbery was discovered to-day before noon yesterday. The undertakers were notified immediately, and detectives were placed at work on the case. Search warrants were issued in order that the police might enter a local medical college to look for the bodies, but upon search the bodies were not found there. The detectives have been unable to find them.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are very peculiar. Sunday evening the grave was opened by the agent of the cemetery, and the bodies were there. Yesterday morning the bodies were opened again, and the bodies were found missing.

One week ago Frankovich and Mike Bukowoc, the two Polish brothers, who had been members of the Polish Society, and the funeral services were conducted by the Polish Society, a son of Ned Miller, an old negro, says he was aroused from his sleep by fire of gunpowder. The wanted him to tell them where the two bodies were buried. He refused to do so, and threatened to shoot them, if they did not leave the city. The police department, however, did not hear from some source that ghouls had stolen the bodies. He reported the bodies to the coroner's office, and the coroner and the undertakers who buried the bodies, and who had charge of the cemetery.

An article in yesterday's Journal, William Billwell, of the firm of Daniels & Comfort, the undertakers, who buried the bodies, accused the two Polish brothers of robbing St. John's cemetery one week ago Sunday. The graves were reburied last Sunday.

Great excitement now prevails in Polish circles, and if the robbers are apprehended they will receive speedy justice. The robbery was discovered to-day before noon yesterday. The undertakers were notified immediately, and detectives were placed at work on the case. Search warrants were issued in order that the police might enter a local medical college to look for the bodies, but upon search the bodies were not found there. The detectives have been unable to find them.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are very peculiar. Sunday evening the grave was opened by the agent of the cemetery, and the bodies were there. Yesterday morning the bodies were opened again, and the bodies were found missing.

One week ago Frankovich and Mike Bukowoc, the two Polish brothers, who had been members of the Polish Society, and the funeral services were conducted by the Polish Society, a son of Ned Miller, an old negro, says he was aroused from his sleep by fire of gunpowder. The wanted him to tell them where the two bodies were buried. He refused to do so, and threatened to shoot them, if they did not leave the city. The police department, however, did not hear from some source that ghouls had stolen the bodies. He reported the bodies to the coroner's office, and the coroner and the undertakers who buried the bodies, and who had charge of the cemetery.

An article in yesterday's Journal, William Billwell, of the firm of Daniels & Comfort, the undertakers, who buried the bodies, accused the two Polish brothers of robbing St. John's cemetery one week ago Sunday. The graves were reburied last Sunday.

Great excitement now prevails in Polish circles, and if the robbers are apprehended they will receive speedy justice. The robbery was discovered to-day before noon yesterday. The undertakers were notified immediately, and detectives were placed at work on the case. Search warrants were issued in order that the police might enter a local medical college to look for the bodies, but upon search the bodies were not found there. The detectives have been unable to find them.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are very peculiar. Sunday evening the grave was opened by the agent of the cemetery, and the bodies were there. Yesterday morning the bodies were opened again, and the bodies were found missing.

One week ago Frankovich and Mike Bukowoc, the two Polish brothers, who had been members of the Polish Society, and the funeral services were conducted by the Polish Society, a son of Ned Miller, an old negro, says he was aroused from his sleep by fire of gunpowder. The wanted him to tell them where the two bodies were buried. He refused to do so, and threatened to shoot them, if they did not leave the city. The police department, however, did not hear from some source that ghouls had stolen the bodies. He reported the bodies to the coroner's office, and the coroner and the undertakers who buried the bodies, and who had charge of the cemetery.

An article in yesterday's Journal, William Billwell, of the firm of Daniels & Comfort, the undertakers, who buried the bodies, accused the two Polish brothers of robbing St. John's cemetery one week ago Sunday. The graves were reburied last Sunday.

Great excitement now prevails in Polish circles, and if the robbers are apprehended they will receive speedy justice. The robbery was discovered to-day before noon yesterday. The undertakers were notified immediately, and detectives were placed at work on the case. Search warrants were issued in order that the police might enter a local medical college to look for the bodies, but upon search the bodies were not found there. The detectives have been unable to find them.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are very peculiar. Sunday evening the grave was opened by the agent of the cemetery, and the bodies were there. Yesterday morning the bodies were opened again, and the bodies were found missing.

One week ago Frankovich and Mike Bukowoc, the two Polish brothers, who had been members of the Polish Society, and the funeral services were conducted by the Polish Society, a son of Ned Miller, an old negro, says he was aroused from his sleep by fire of gunpowder. The wanted him to tell them where the two bodies were buried. He refused to do so, and threatened to shoot them, if they did not leave the city. The police department, however, did not hear from some source that ghouls had stolen the bodies. He reported the bodies to the coroner's office, and the coroner and the undertakers who buried the bodies, and who had charge of the cemetery.

An article in yesterday's Journal, William Billwell, of the firm of Daniels & Comfort, the undertakers, who buried the bodies, accused the two Polish brothers of robbing St. John's cemetery one week ago Sunday. The graves were reburied last Sunday.

Great excitement now prevails in Polish circles, and if the robbers are apprehended they will receive speedy justice. The robbery was discovered to-day before noon yesterday. The undertakers were notified immediately, and detectives were placed at work on the case. Search warrants were issued in order that the police might enter a local medical college to look for the bodies, but upon search the bodies were not found there. The detectives have been unable to find them.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are very peculiar. Sunday evening the grave was opened by the agent of the cemetery, and the bodies were there. Yesterday morning the bodies were opened again, and the bodies were found missing.

One week ago Frankovich and Mike Bukowoc, the two Polish brothers, who had been members of the Polish Society, and the funeral services were conducted by the Polish Society, a son of Ned Miller, an old negro, says he was aroused from his sleep by fire of gunpowder. The wanted him to tell them where the two bodies were buried. He refused to do so, and threatened to shoot them, if they did not leave the city. The police department, however, did not hear from some source that ghouls had stolen the bodies. He reported the bodies to the coroner's office, and the coroner and the undertakers who buried the bodies, and who had charge of the cemetery.

An article in yesterday's Journal, William Billwell, of the firm of Daniels & Comfort, the undertakers, who buried the bodies, accused the two Polish brothers of robbing St. John's cemetery one week ago Sunday. The graves were reburied last Sunday.

Great excitement now prevails in Polish circles, and if the robbers are apprehended they will receive speedy justice. The robbery was discovered to-day before noon yesterday. The undertakers were notified immediately, and detectives were placed at work on the case. Search warrants were issued in order that the police might enter a local medical college to look for the bodies, but upon search the bodies were not found there. The detectives have been unable to find them.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are very peculiar. Sunday evening the grave was opened by the agent of the cemetery, and the bodies were there. Yesterday morning the bodies were opened again, and the bodies were found missing.

One week ago Frankovich and Mike Bukowoc, the two Polish brothers, who had been members of the Polish Society, and the funeral services were conducted by the Polish Society, a son of Ned Miller, an old negro, says he was aroused from his sleep by fire of gunpowder. The wanted him to tell them where the two bodies were buried. He refused to do so, and threatened to shoot them, if they did not leave the city. The police department, however, did not hear from some source that ghouls had stolen the bodies. He reported the bodies to the coroner's office, and the coroner and the undertakers who buried the bodies, and who had charge of the cemetery.

An article in yesterday's Journal, William Billwell, of the firm of Daniels & Comfort, the undertakers, who buried the bodies, accused the two Polish brothers of robbing St. John's cemetery one week ago Sunday. The graves were reburied last Sunday.

Great excitement now prevails in Polish circles, and if the robbers are apprehended they will receive speedy justice. The robbery was discovered to-day before noon yesterday. The undertakers were notified immediately, and detectives were placed at work on the case. Search warrants were issued in order that the police might enter a local medical college to look for the bodies, but upon search the bodies were not found there. The detectives have been unable to find them.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are very peculiar. Sunday evening the grave was opened by the agent of the cemetery, and the bodies were there. Yesterday morning the bodies were opened again, and the bodies were found missing.

One week ago Frankovich and Mike Bukowoc, the two Polish brothers, who had been members of the Polish Society, and the funeral services were conducted by the Polish Society, a son of Ned Miller, an old negro, says he was aroused from his sleep by fire of gunpowder. The wanted him to tell them where the two bodies were buried. He refused to do so, and threatened to shoot them, if they did not leave the city. The police department, however, did not hear from some source that ghouls had stolen the bodies. He reported the bodies to the coroner's office, and the coroner and the undertakers who buried the bodies, and who had charge of the cemetery.

An article in yesterday's Journal, William Billwell, of the firm of Daniels & Comfort, the undertakers, who buried the bodies, accused the two Polish brothers of robbing St. John's cemetery one week ago Sunday. The graves were reburied last Sunday.

Great excitement now prevails in Polish circles, and if the robbers are apprehended they will receive speedy justice. The robbery was discovered to-day before noon yesterday. The undertakers were notified immediately, and detectives were placed at work on the case. Search warrants were issued in order that the police might enter a local medical college to look for the bodies, but upon search the bodies were not found there. The detectives have been unable to find them.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are very peculiar. Sunday evening the grave was opened by the agent of the cemetery, and the bodies were there. Yesterday morning the bodies were opened again, and the bodies were found missing.

One week ago Frankovich and Mike Bukowoc, the two Polish brothers, who had been members of the Polish Society, and the funeral services were conducted by the Polish Society, a son of Ned Miller, an old negro, says he was aroused from his sleep by fire of gunpowder. The wanted him to tell them where the two bodies were buried. He refused to do so, and threatened to shoot them, if they did not leave the city. The police department, however, did not hear from some source that ghouls had stolen the bodies. He reported the bodies to the coroner's office, and the coroner and the undertakers who buried the bodies, and who had charge of the cemetery.

An article in yesterday's Journal, William Billwell, of the firm of Daniels & Comfort, the undertakers, who buried the bodies, accused the two Polish brothers of robbing St. John's cemetery one week ago Sunday. The graves were reburied last Sunday.

Great excitement now prevails in Polish circles, and if the robbers are apprehended they will receive speedy justice. The robbery was discovered to-day before noon yesterday. The undertakers were notified immediately, and detectives were placed at work on the case. Search warrants were issued in order that the police might enter a local medical college to look for the bodies, but upon search the bodies were not found there. The detectives have been unable to find them.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are very peculiar. Sunday evening the grave was opened by the agent of the cemetery, and the bodies were there. Yesterday morning the bodies were opened again, and the bodies were found missing.

One week ago Frankovich and Mike Bukowoc, the two Polish brothers, who had been members of the Polish Society, and the funeral services were conducted by the Polish Society, a son of Ned Miller, an old negro, says he was aroused from his sleep by fire of gunpowder. The wanted him to tell them where the two bodies were buried. He refused to do so, and threatened to shoot them, if they did not leave the city. The police department, however, did not hear from some source that ghouls had stolen the bodies. He reported the bodies to the coroner's office, and the coroner and the undertakers who buried the bodies, and who had charge of the cemetery.

An article in yesterday's Journal, William Billwell, of the firm of Daniels & Comfort, the undertakers, who buried the bodies, accused the two Polish brothers of robbing St. John's cemetery one week ago Sunday. The graves were reburied last Sunday.

Great excitement now prevails in Polish circles, and if the robbers are apprehended they will receive speedy justice. The robbery was discovered to-day before noon yesterday. The undertakers were notified immediately, and detectives were placed at work on the case. Search warrants were issued in order that the police might enter a local medical college to look for the bodies, but upon search the bodies were not found there. The detectives have been unable to find them.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are very peculiar. Sunday evening the grave was opened by the agent of the cemetery, and the bodies were there. Yesterday morning the bodies were opened again, and the bodies were found missing.

One week ago Frankovich and Mike Bukowoc, the two Polish brothers, who had been members of the Polish Society, and the funeral services were conducted by the Polish Society, a son of Ned Miller, an old negro, says he was aroused from his sleep by fire of gunpowder. The wanted him to tell them where the two bodies were buried. He refused to do so, and threatened to shoot them, if they did not leave the city. The police department, however, did not hear from some source that ghouls had stolen the bodies. He reported the bodies to the coroner's office, and the coroner and the undertakers who buried the bodies, and who had charge of the cemetery.